CARD GAME BREAKS UP IN MURDER

The Leon Correspondent to the East Kentucky Journal, published at Grayson, Carter County, Ky., has the following:

"Moonshine whiskey and card playing led to a brutal murder just over the line in Elliott county Friday night. Charley (Discut) Mobley, Leonard Binion, Watt Stone and Hansford Whitte were engaged in a game, and, as we got the story, the bottle was passed, Stone and Whitte each took two drinks. The others did not drink as they furnished the booze. In a few minutes Stone was unconscious and carried home. However, he was short $10. White was dead, his head being badly bent up and his money, about $151, was gone, also Mobley and Binion gone. White's son found him the next morning on the bank of the river, where the game was played and he was killed. Officers from Elliott county came here and called Sheriff Flannery, as Mobley and Binion were Carter county men and were in the county up to date. We understand they have not been apprehended. Watt Stone has no knowledge of the killing as he says it happened after he was taken home.

Hellup! Auto Wrecker Is Disabled

Motorists going to Ironton laughed Sunday afternoon when they saw Windel's auto wrecker alongside of the road with a tire off and it was hung up for repairs. It's a long time that has no turning," one motorist said as he gazed on the auto-wrecker, which usually goes after other disabled cars.

Sunday School Experts Visit School

Yesterday was a profitable one for Second Presbyterian church. Frank Getty and Harold Danmelly, Sunday School experts from Philadelphia, were visitors. After looking over our school and Young People's Societies they served us very effectively by offering suggestions and showing us better ways to use our equipment. Mr. Getty has been in expert work for several years and had his subject thoroughly mastered. Mr. Danmelly, who specializes in boys' work, spent much time in correcting the defects of our boys' department. Inasmuch as every one was busy thinking of new plans and considering organization several news ideas were created and plans for putting them into execution are being made.

The evening service in which the music was led by the men's choir, was very effective. With their left again filled with male voices the congregation was led in the hymns in an inspirational way. The minister preached an evangelistic sermon on the theme "The Curse of Boredom" after which an invitation was extended to any who might care to renew their vows. A male quartette composed of Messrs. Deaton, Young, Lloyd and Jones sang a special number aside from the special hymn sung by the men of the choir.

The program for the week is as follows: Boy Scout night has been changed from Tuesday to Monday. The boys of the church will use the gym on Tuesday. Prayer meeting will be held on Wednesday night as usual and on Thursday there will be a Young People's party. This party will include every one from the intermediate and Senior departments of the Sunday School. It will be a Halloween affair and every one will come masked. Special games have been planned that will be absolutely new. Next Sunday at 4 p. m. the choir will hold a vesper service.

Ingrown Nails Will Turn Out

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Onigro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so relieves the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night. "Onigro" is a harmless, antiseptic, manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.—advertisement.

If You Are For GOOD SCHOOLS

Are you in favor of good schools? Are you in favor of advancing onward and upward with no shadow of turning? Are you in favor of placing the future well-being and happiness of your child and your neighbor's child above any narrow, mercenary idea of greed and avarice? Are you in favor of a fair, honest, impartial, clean deal, not only to the most meek and lowly teacher of Scioto County, but of applying the same treatment all along the line, even to and including the County Superintendent? Are you in favor of a County Board of Education who will employ a citizen of Scioto County as Superintendent rather than a board that promises to "advertise widely" (what d'ye mean widely?) at assuredly much expense, for a "foreigner"? Can you get the consent of your conscience to support a trio of pretended reformers who are making a fight, stating nothing as an absolute fact, but, rather hiding behind that cowardly subterfuge inunendo? Are they afraid to specify?

Question No. 1.—

Joseph H. Brant, weren't you a candidate for County Board of Education in 1914 when the new school law began?

Didn't you desire to make F. S. Alley, at that time superintendent at Lucasville, the County Superintendent?

Have you been a cheerful and good loser or have you opposed County Superintendent McCowen ever since?

Fire Quickly Destroys Home At Hales Creek;

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Jackson at Hales Creek was completely destroyed by fire Saturday night and only a small portion of the house and goods were saved. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

When the family was awakened the home was filled with smoke and the flames were spreading rapidly. Mrs. Jackson is ill with typhoid fever. Her bed clothes caught fire and her hands were burned in putting out the flames. Despite the seriousness of her condition she fought bravely for her life. She became exhausted after she walked out of her home. Her brother-in-law, Wm. Jackson, who formerly resided here also had a very close call. He is blind and one time walked directly into the path of the flames. When attention was directed to him Jackson was quickly gotten out of the building. He did not save any of his personal effects. Bucket brigade was formed and an effort was made to save the two story house, but the flames had gained too much headway and the building was soon reduced to ashes. It is believed the fire started from a leaky oil stove in the kitchen.

Haselbeck will insure you.

Rochester Woman Tells Experience

"I suffered, for ten years from nervous indigestion. I had no appetite and always felt miserable. I was in such a serious condition I thought my time for this world was getting short. My food didn't seem to nourish me at all and I only weighed 85 pounds."

"After taking Tanlac, I now weigh 108 and am gaining every day. Oh! there is such a wonderful change now. Tanlac relieved my troubles so quickly it surprised me. My appetite is splendid. I have plenty of strength and feel better than I have in years. I wouldn't take one thousand dollars for what Tanlac did for me."

The above statement was made by Mrs. Clara Lehman, Bristol Hotel, Rochester, N. Y.

"As I predicted unlimited success for my recent production, "Lying Lips," so do I predict a still greater, more widely influencing success, for my latest effort, "Mother O'Mine." It is a pantomimic rhapsody of the greatest love in all the world—the Love of a Mother, for her Son. You will cry a bit, perhaps, but through the glistening tears will shine a rainbow of Joy and Good Cheer, for as a Mother's heart radiates the blessings of Faith and undying Devotion, so does my production, "Mother O'Mine," radiate that Understanding and Simple Humanness which bring the World together, as one, for one—trodding onward and onward, with Everlasting Contentment waiting, and beckoning, at the End." Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Your parents are not sending you to school to make love to the boys.

Dear Dolly—I am having a Halloween party at my home the following week, would like to have some information as how I should decorate the house and what to serve and when the guests should remove their masks?

THANK YOU

This same question was answered fully in last Monday's paper, a week ago tonight. If you have lost your paper you can get another one by calling at this office. Remove your masks before refreshments are served.

Dear Dolly—My husband is receiving the attentions of another woman and it almost breaks my heart. She meets him around places. I have caught them together but they always make some excuse. We have children and I want to do the right thing. I watch my husband and he knows it. Would you advise me not to nag at him about this woman or what will I do. I am awfully down hearted. Your advice will be appreciated.

S. N.

Often times people meet accidentally and talk, but that is no sign they are in love—not by a long shot. The fact that you "catch" them is a pretty good sign that they are not ashamed to be seen together. If they really were in love they would meet some place where no one would see them. I would advise you to "perk up" and quit nagging your husband. A nagging wife would drive a man to do most anything. The same rule applies to nagging husbands.

Dear Dolly—I am a Sophomore girl in high school and am in love with a Junior boy. Now, Dolly, he is, as I think, the cutest and the best looking fellow that I ever did care anything about. We are both somewhat inclined to be jealous. I was never before jealous of a boy, but I actually believe that I am now. I do not go with any one else and he does not either, so I think that we are true to each other. The girls are most all crazy about him, but he seems to think more of me than any of them. Is this jealousy feeling right or wrong? Sometimes I think it is right and at other times I think it is wrong. Therefore, I am puzzled. For any advice, I would be very thankful to you.

THE WALKING DOLL

It is not a question of right or wrong. It is a question of whether or not you want to make yourself miserable over nothing. However, you are doing wrong when you spend your perfectly good time thinking about boys when you should be devoting every minute of your time to your lessons.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by breeding a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw it through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and lustrous.—advertisement.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by breeding a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw it through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and lustrous.—advertisement.

CONFESSIONS OF A MOVIE STAR

CHAPTER VII—I HEAR A VOICE I USED TO KNOW

Now of course I never, never, never, would have confessed to anyone that I was fully sick when I learned that a total stranger, and not one of our company, was to follow me around and make violent love to me, and harass me to distraction and the verge of suicide in "Love in Leash."

The part of the villain in the play I was about to undertake wasn't much less important than that of the hero. I didn't want a new name to do it. I wanted somebody I knew.

No wonder I was distressed as I waited to be introduced to Dick Barnes over the phone.

First came Bangs' sympathetic voice:

"Hello-o-o. May? I'm so sorry about those green eyes! Better? That's good. Say, I'm going to put Dick Barnes on the line. Ready?" So much was intended for me. What I heard was not:

"Son, you're now going to meet the finest little lady who ever got lost in the movie game!"

A pause and then:

"Miss Scott?"

A pause at my end of the wire. "That voice! I knew it as well as I knew my own! At last I managed to speak, calmly and coolly!"

"Mr. Barnes! I'm very glad to meet you!"

The ensuing silence was long. I had about concluded that somebody had cut me off when I heard this:

"Thank you, Miss Scott! I'm so sorry to bother you! But if you'll just give me a hint of your style of business life, the remnant interior, I'd esteem it a great favor! Bangs says you're to have it your own way—as usual!"

"They'll shoot the telecent first! I didn't know, Mr. Bangs didn't!"

I stammered, stopped. I could not keep my mind on what I was saying.

The strangely vibrant quality of Dick Barnes' voice over the wire had startled me. I had heard the one voice in the world like it—daily—for two happy vacation months. And there seemed no chance whatever that I ever would hear that voice again.

I pulled myself together with a painful effort and put my mind on the rehearsals. I seldom had to rehearse unless extras were to be instructed. I was always willing to work with them. Since they were hired by the day, it was part of my responsibility to see that the scenes with them went off right before the cameras.

Dick Barnes concluded our conversation with:

"Unfortunately, I've never seen a picture of you, Miss Scott. You see, I've been abroad for a year. Just landed. Nandy picked me up at our fraternity house. And he looked me up with your company immediately. I appreciate your luck. Now you won't object if I get Bangs or Nandy to show me some of your stills, will you?"

"Not at all! Nandy has a plenty!"

I laughed. "Goodly!" Never had I hung up a receiver with such reluctance. I didn't want to say "goodly" to the man who had been so kind to listen to that familiar vibrant voice.

I was disgusted with myself because I hadn't the courage to ask Mr. Barnes to send a few stills of himself out to my apartment!

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

CHERRY RESUMES HER OLD LIFE

The middle of December found Cherry established in the Marye designating rooms, queen of all she surveyed. In the feverish activity of the first few days she had little time to think about her own affairs, but now she was highly delighted to have secured the valuable services of a competent designer like Cherry and spent most of his time the first three days in standing over her and watching her work.

"It is marvellous how you arrange the bright ideas for these hats of ours, Madame Lawrence!" Cherry had taken back her own name. "And I am so madly happy that we could get you to come to us. How could we possibly have wasted so many months in the country, as you tell me you did? It is a loss to the artistic world when you do this."

"Ah! But there are times when one must retire if only a fleeting hour, Mr. Marye. And I knew the call when it came," answered Cherry with a serious look.

"Don't, don't. You understand best what to do for yourself, Madame, but please don't get to feeling restless again. Sing with us, now that we have captured you."

Cherry enjoyed her work thoroughly. It seemed like old times again to be sitting surrounded by a bevy of hand-maidens, all watching with eager eyes the dexterity of her pen and needle. Commissions at Marye's were most congenial, and there was always a throng of interesting people to talk to during the day, customers and otherwise. The shop's clientele was the creme de la creme of Chicago's society.

As the days went by the sparkle came back to Cherry's eyes and the wild rose bloom to her cheeks. She even learned to hum again as she worked. There were several awfully nice girls who chummed with her and all in all life was fast becoming possible.

Her family was moving out into the suburbs when Cherry secured her position

TRUCE BEING ARRANGED
LONDON, Oct. 24.—A truce between the troops of the Hungarian government and those supporting former Emperor Charles is being arranged to prevent further blood shed, says a Vienna dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. The Horthy administration of Hungary, however, continued to resist the advance of Charles' forces and are declared to have captured 120 prisoners.

VIENNA, October 24.—The military strength of the former emperor is reported to be increasing steadily as the news of his coup spread to the remotest districts, distant monarchist bands hastening to his support.

Czechs All Riled Up
LONDON, Oct. 24.—Feeling over the attempt of former Emperor Charles to regain the throne of Hungary is running high in Czechoslovakia. It is said in dispatches received in British official quarters from Prague. The decree for the mobilization of the Czechoslovakian army was expected to be signed this morning and Premier Benes is said to be in communication with the governments of Rumania and Yugoslavia.

An official telegram dispatched from Budapest last night states the Hungarian premier has informed the British minister the situation is steadily improving. The Kaiser's army have been driven back a considerable distance from the city and fresh troops are arriving on the scene. It is said they should be able to surround the former emperor and his followers.
Must Chase Charles Out of Hungary
It is regarded as most important to get Charles out of Hungary and the government of that country is anxious to know where he should be sent when captured. An earlier telegram received from the British minister in Budapest stated Charles and his forces were only a few miles outside the city and that the firing of guns could be heard. The foreign minister of Hungary stated to the British minister that the troops on either side refused to fire upon each other. Feeling in the lower classes is opposed to the restoration of Charles, but in the middle class there is a tendency in favor of the former emperor. Budapest is said to be strictly patrolled and no disorder has occurred there.

DESPAIR LURKS IN WEAK BLOOD

Gude's Pepto-Mangan, the Blood Builder, Arouses Dull Faculties

Many a man and many a woman feels all out of sorts from thin, weakened blood. The least little thing goes wrong and they are in a wild form of despondency. Instead of bracing up and meeting ordinary difficulties, they are downed. Nerves are on edge. Appetite lags. Sleep is restless. They are weak and tired and dull. Poor blood works its havoc till the will loses its power. Few people who fall into habits of worry and despondency realize that most of their troubles are due to lack of endurance—to blood that has become weakened by overwork or strain.

Healthy men and women with rich red blood see things brightly. They tackle life with zest and go along smilingly, full of eagerness and endurance.
Gude's Pepto-Mangan taken steadily restores the blood to its natural richness. It naturally makes red corpuscles, the tiny particles in blood which make it red. Druggists have Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid and tablet form.—advertisement.

YOUNG GIRL FINDS RELIEF

Wants to Tell Other Girls All About It

Evansville, Ind.—"I am eighteen years old and have been bothered for several months with irregular periods. Every month my back would ache and I would have a cold and felt drowsy and sleep. I work in a millinery shop and I want to work everyday, but felt stupid and would have such cramps. I had seen Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and had heard several women talk of it, so mother got me some. This Vegetable Compound is wonderful and it helped me very much, so that during my periods I am not now sick or drowsy. I have told many girls about it and would be glad to help anyone who is troubled with similar ailments."—SRELLA L. EVANS, 6 Second St., Evansville, Ind.

When such symptoms develop as irregularities, headaches, backaches, bearing-down sensations, and "the blues," girls should profit by Miss Linxwiler's experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

Rail Situation

"Many of these disputes contained the possibilities of strikes or lock-outs.
"The board is anxious to get the present dispute out of the way in order that the restoration of sound business conditions may proceed.
"All good Americans should refrain from loose talk and provocative language about either side of the controversy. Neither of the parties should be alarmed or irritated by unwarranted denunciation or insinuation from irresponsible sources."

Decision of the railroad clerks and station employees, numerically one of the largest of the railroad men's unions, not to join the "big four" brotherhoods and the switchmen in the strike placed the brotherhoods today, greatly in the minority in their announced determination to walk out.
The action of the clerks and station employees placed nine of the sixteen standard unions on record as opposed to the strike, with only the telegraphers lined up with the "big five." The signal men, with a membership of 15,000, were expected to complete a strike vote this week.

The four brotherhood leaders now in Cleveland summoned T. C. Cushman, president of the switchmen, to join the conference in Cleveland today. State-ments from W. R. Stone, head of the engineers, and W. G. Lee, head of the telegraphers, indicated the big five had not changed the strike plans. Mr. Stone asserted the consequences of the strike would rest upon the railroad labor board, while Lee declared he had an "abiding faith in fairness of the American people when they understand the truth of the situation."

Officials of the labor board began preparations for the meeting here Wednesday of the 500 general chairmen of the brotherhoods and a similar number of railroad executives, and a meeting of the Association of Railway Executives, to discuss its attitude toward Wednesday's conference, was called for tomorrow.

Officials of the International and Great Northern declared that passenger service was normal despite the strike of 600 trainmen Saturday and that freight service was gradually being extended. In response to Mr. Stone's statement blaming the labor board for the present strained situation, Chairman R. M. Burton, of the board, declared he is "willing to let the public decide who is to blame."

"You may say for me as emphatically as you wish," he added, "whether the railroad labor board is to be blamed for any thing or not, those men can not justify their action on that ground. They can't thus excuse their throwing the country into such a terrific industrial crisis as a general railroad strike will bring about."

Daughter Surveyed Situation in Middle West
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Back from a trip into the middle west, where he was reported as having made an informal survey of the railroad strike situation, Attorney General Daugherty called today at the White House.
The attorney general later in the day planned to confer with United States District Attorneys Harvard, of New York; Clyde of Chicago; Wertz, of Cleveland; Lockwood, of Buffalo, and VanNoy of Indianapolis.
The conference, it was understood, would be for the purpose of mapping out a plan of action in event of a strike.

Unions Blame Railroads And Board for Situation
CLEVELAND, Oct. 24.—(By the Associated Press).—Railroad Brotherhood chiefs today were to continue their conferences on the general strike situation and on plans for compliance with citation of the railroad labor board ordering them, their general officers and general chairman to appear before the board next Wednesday in Chicago.

Before the Chicago meeting they are not expected to add to or elaborate their statement yesterday, in which they placed responsibility for the proposed strike on the labor board and the carriers.

A three-fourths page advertisement appearing in local newspapers this morning attempts to show the average pay received by employees of railroads between New York and Chicago, two parallel lines being chosen for this purpose. It also states the two roads employ about 35,000 men. Maximum and minimum wages before the July reduction, also presents and amounts of reductions, are given.

Comparative Figures On Wage Controversy
The figures quoted in the advertisement as being the average monthly wage at this time are approximately $20 to about $30 more than wages noted in a statement issued from the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen's headquarters early last week.

Following are a few examples:
Freight engineers, advertisement, first road, $27.20; second road, $28.45; trainmen, advertisement, $22.87.
Passenger conductors, advertisement, first road, $21.40; second road,

You will get to see every step taken in the laundering process from the time the bundle is opened, the pieces sorted and marked, to the time they are completely finished and neatly packed ready for delivery.

Investigate our Wet Wash, Rough Dry and finished work when you inspect our laundry.

See whether we use injurious "Chemicals." Decide whether the Mangle really mangles your fabrics or adds to their life and beauty. Poke around into things. Find fault, too, if you can; for we're just as anxious to learn your side as to have you know ours.

It will give you a clearer view of an industry whose dominant impulse is for cleanliness of person and home.

You ought to know more about this business. You will if you accept our invitation.

Don't forget the time, October 25th and 26th.
The visit will be worth your while.
You will be more than welcome.
The latch string is out. We will be looking for you.
DO COME.

U. of C. To Play Wittenberg Team

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 24.—Coach Boyd Chambers expects to start his team at hard work this afternoon in preparation for the game with Wittenberg Saturday at Carson field, which will mark the entrance of University of Cincinnati in the Ohio Conference race for football honors.

The Kentucky Wesleyan game was little more than a work-out for the locals. Chambers said today that he feared Wittenberg less than he did the over-confidence of his team as an obstacle between Cincinnati and the Conference championship.

SOUTH PORTSMOUTH MAN IS HELDUP

While on his way to his home in Reahtyville, Ky., just below South Portsmouth late Saturday night, two unknown men held up William Smith and relieved him of $1.75, all the money he had.

The men halted Mr. Smith, when near the C. & O. coal tipple. They asked him for some tobacco and when he refused, they used it, they stuck guns in his face and commanded him to put up his hands. Smith says he did this and then the men secured his money. They also took a bill-fold, which was found yesterday in Smith's yard. He says this indicates to him that it was local talent that staged the robbery.

Inspect Country Club Site

More than 100 members of the Country Club Sunday availed themselves of the opportunity to inspect their new home on the Tremper farm on the West Side. They romped over the big farm and are more than pleased with its selection. They found the location ideal, the scenery wonderful and are pleased with the accessibility of the site.

City Chairman.

Twenty Four Years Ago

Contractor Charles Frowine started work on the erection of a residence at the corner of Fourteenth and Waller streets for R. A. Little, of Third street.

Miss Laura Richardson gave a Halloween party, the members of the proposed Saturday night club being her guests. They spent a delightful evening, one of the amusements being an old-fashioned "taffy pulling."

Rev. J. B. Tule finally accepted the call to the pastorate of the First Baptist church of this city.

A deal was closed whereby the New Boston plant of the Little Kanawha Lumber company passed into the hands of Newman and Spangler, of Ironton. The mill, which cost $120,000 sold for less than one-fourth that sum.

"Get married" was the advice given "Tuck" Williams, colored, in lieu of a sentence when he was brought before Mayor Glidden for assaulting his lover, Lizette Baker, a comely widow.

Both were colored and they accepted the advice to fulfill his honor's wish.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gates, of east Seventh street, received the congratulations over the arrival of a bright little boy at their home.

William Ahrend called here by the death of his brother, Charles Ahrend, returned to his home in Cincinnati.

The family of the late Charles Ahrend decided to continue in the management of the Eureka Hotel.

A little baby daughter arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weber, Jr., of West Ninth street.

The village of Williamsburg on the C. & O. was visited by a disastrous fire. The blaze started in a drug store and almost wiped out the business portion of the town.

A Crescent bicycle belonging to Alex Glockner was stolen from the C. C. C. club rooms on Second street.

A new machine enables a person to make 1500 prints an hour from one photographic negative.

Mother! Clean Child's Bowels With "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well-playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Revival Services Well Attended

Sunday, October 23rd, was a great day in the history of the Ohio Avenue Christian church of New Boston. The Bible school was at a high note and the evangelistic services were well attended.

The church seating capacity was all taken up and when the song service began the ushers had to secure chairs for the overflow.

The chorists (old nobly and Brother Howland of Portsmouth Christian church put vim and courage into the singing. The special music rendered was very inspiring.

During the morning services money was raised to pay for new song books and folks gave liberally.

The children's meeting at 2 p. m. was well attended and the evangelist gave a blackboard talk to the boys and girls on the word "Watch." Watch their words, actions, thoughts, select good companions and not to drift into bad habits.

He had one tie to his hand illustrating how a bad habit will grow until at last it has bound a person until they cannot get loose without higher power and better influence.

A service was held at 2:45 p. m. for personal workers.

Great enthusiasm was manifested at the evening services and folks were brought to a real understanding of how much they would weigh on the great scales of God's eternal judgment.

The services will continue this week and the evangelist, P. E. Britton, will deliver some real heart-felt sermons to

Wendell Taylor Drops Dead

While in the rear yard of his home preparing a clothes line for his wife, Wendell Taylor dropped dead shortly after 11 o'clock this morning, an attack of heart trouble causing death. He was one of the best known young men in Sciotoville and had just arrived home for his noon day meal. He had been busy all morning delivering grocery orders and he did not complain of feeling ill. A few minutes after arriving home he started to prepare the clothes line for his wife and he had been in the yard near the rear porch just a few minutes when he fell to the ground. His moans brought his wife from the kitchen, but when she summoned a physician Mr. Taylor was beyond medical aid. An examination showed death due to a heart attack. News of the death came as a big shock to the family and the man's immediate friends. Many of his friends at first did not believe the report knowing that Mr. Taylor had been in the best of health. Many had seen him this morning at work and could not believe for a while that it was true that such a man in the prime of life had been called home. Wendell Taylor was 30 years of age. He was born and reared in Sciotoville where he attended school and later taught school. After a short time as teacher he entered the grocery store of his father, Addison Taylor, where he had been continually employed. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nell Stewart Taylor, two children, Maxine and Betty, his parents, Mr. and Mrs.

Addison Taylor and a sister, Mrs. Ella Moorhead, wife of Dr. E. E. Moorhead. The deceased was also a nephew of Dr. Martha Taylor of Sciotoville. Mr. Taylor was a member of the Western Sun lodge of Masons. He also belonged to the M. E. church of Sciotoville. Besides his many friends in Sciotoville Mr. Taylor leaves many friends and acquaintances in Portsmouth. The Taylor store is on Gallia street, west of Harding avenue, Sciotoville.

STATE FORESTERS COURT ENTERTAINED HERE

St. Joseph's Court No. 1221, Catholic Order of Foresters, entertained the State Court Sunday morning and afternoon, this quarterly meeting being one of the best held by the state organization.

The High Court was represented by High Court Trustee Thomas E. Greene Cleveland.

The morning meeting of State officers was held at ten o'clock in the Washington Hotel parlors. The reports of various officers and committees occupied most of the morning session. These reports were interesting and full of enthusiasm. The reports show a bright future for the order. All routine business was disposed of before the session adjourned. Before adjournment it was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting in Chicago subject to the call of the State Chief Ranner. The International Convention will meet there in February and it is the intention of the State Court to meet at the same time.

After dinner at the hotel the local committee in charge announced an automobile ride for the visitors. The ride included the city and surrounding community the visitors being greatly impressed with the size of the city and its varied industries. State Chief Ranner Zettler of Canton had visited Portsmouth before. He is a real estate dealer and he spoke especially of the rapid growth of the city. All were loud in their praises of the Peers City and predicted big things for its future.

The afternoon session was held in Ben Hur hall at which time High Court Trustee Greene addressed the members on forestry and the new rate question. W. N. Zettler, State Chief Ranner, spoke on the loyalty of subordinate courts in Ohio, special meeting being made of the local court, its prosperous condition and its willing cooperation in all good causes.

He also took occasion at this time to extend the State Court thanks for the care and entertainment provided for them during their stay. Rev. T. A. Goebel, the spiritual director of St. Joseph's Church, in his talk, encouraged all members to continue as active members in order that the membership would continue to grow. (owing to limited time, members having to leave on the afternoon train, the installation of the local officers was postponed till the next regular meeting, Wednesday.

Portsmouth To Entertain A. M. E. Meeting

Portsmouth will entertain the 1922 meeting of the state conference of the A. M. E. church. Zanesville, Mt. Vernon and Chillicothe were other places after the 1922 meeting.

A number of members of Allen Chapel were in attendance at the closing session of the state conference of the church held at Lancaster Sunday.

The conference was in session all week. Rev. W. E. Watson, local pastor, returned today noon from the conference. Today it was reported that it is probable that he will be assigned to a pulpit in Steubenville, but Rev. Watson this afternoon declined to make any statement on the reported change. It is reported that

Rev. Grant Metcalf will fill the local pulpit until a minister is secured. Among those who attended the conference were John Evans, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Jackson, Mrs. Bettie Redman, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Smith, Mrs. Mary Goff, Mrs. Della Payne and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reynolds.

The Governor and his party will arrive here by automobile and will go direct to the Flagg estate in the vicinity of Buena Vista. No stop will be made here the party intending to inspect the land and get back to Portsmouth early in the evening.

A committee consisting of Dr. W. D. Trempier, Vallee Harold, Arthur Bannan, Roger Selby and F. B. Winter of the Chamber of Commerce has been named to make all plans for the banquet and general reception.

The land to be inspected is the Flagg estate of about 25,000 acres, and some adjacent farms, this land occupying practically all the drainage area of Upper and Lower Twin Creek.

This land was inspected recently by a party of state officials who were said to be well impressed with the proposed site. The visit of the Governor and his official party is the second to this proposed site and Scioto county citizens are fully expecting the Governor to find that the site is one of the best that could be secured for this purpose.

Similar preserves in other states have proven to be of inestimable value to their respective localities. Such a station would be a big asset to Scioto county.

Fire In Selby Basement

When the case of Green Hall, charged with non-support of his two minor children, was called for trial before Judge Thomas and a jury in Common Pleas court at one o'clock Monday, the defendant failed to appear and as a consequence there was no trial. Judge Blair was in court representing the accused, and explained that his client was working as a timberman in the mountains of West Virginia and that it was probable that he had failed to receive the notice sent of the hearing. The attorney promised to get in touch with the defendant and have him come before the court at the earliest possible time. He said Hall was anxious to adjust the matter and that he was willing to support his two children.

Judge Thomas dismissed the jurors Tuesday morning when they will return to try the paternity suit of Joseph Mitchell against John Henry Brown. They live in Jefferson Tp. and the complainant alleges that Brown is the father of her infant child. Attorney E. G. Miller will appear for plaintiff and Attorney Mark Crawford will represent the defendant.

father and none of my relatives have never held a county office. It is true that I served for a short time as deputy sheriff under "Pete" Smith, while the dangerous work of looking after several desperadoes, who were in Scioto county, while the C. & O. railroad was building. As a deputy sheriff it was always my aim to so discharge all the duties assigned me (many of which assignments were not the most pleasant) to the best of my ability and I trust to the satisfaction of my employer and the citizens of this county.

It is among the possibilities that I may become a candidate for sheriff, and should I so decide, I shall make announcement in both of the valuable papers, The Times, and The Morning Sun.

Yours most truly,

BUT IT IS DIFFERENT NOW

THE administration at Washington announces with high exultation, that Lloyd George will attend the disarmament conference.

For a considerable period it has been in deep gloom because of the information that the distinguished British premier would not be enrolled among the representatives of his country. And rightly so a conference without the fiery Welshman present would be more flat, stale and unprofitable than the play with Hamlet left out.

But what do you suppose was the urge used by the administration to have Lloyd George change his mind and come over? Nothing else than that President Wilson has broken all precedent by going over to the Paris conference and it would be altogether amiss and avary if the British premier did not acknowledge the honor conferred in that action by giving his presence to the Washington council.

That we must believe because the administration so tells us through a semi-official spokesman.

Funny old world isn't it—funny how the people could be fooled about this same year and all the time, for that matter.

MAKE IT THE GOAT

RAILROAD executives and leaders of railroad unions are heatedly laying the blame, one side upon the other, for the impending strike.

In view of the utter impossibility of any agreement, or conclusion, between them as to where first responsibility lies, as a friendly and impartial bystander, we suggest that the blame be laid upon a popular scape goat for all our ills, the automobile.

It wouldn't be far amiss. Down at the bottom of the railway situation lies the fact that the roads are not making any money. They are not making enough because they are not carrying enough passengers and freight.

A potent reason why they are not is because the automobile is carrying an ever increasing multitude of passengers and on-large volume of freight. Thousands of drummers, former chief patrons of trains are now harrying the country in tin lizzies, millions of people who formerly skeddaddled wildly at the cry of "all aboard" are now traveling in their own cars. Thousands of trucks are running regularly between cities as far apart as Detroit and New York, tens of thousands are making shorter trips and carrying tons upon tons of freight. This all means a loss of millions of revenue to the railroad.

There are today in operation 9,245,195 cars and trucks, with 150,000 trailers and motorcycles not counted. They are hurting the railways, both ways—taking traffic directly from them and in countless instances rendering their owners too poor to pay fare.

THE OTHER WAY ROUND

WE'VE, of course, all read stories of how vast fortunes have been acquired, been thrilled by them and, perhaps, had a spasm of unacknowledged envy that no such luck ever strayed our way. Well here is another story about a vast fortune, of a different kind, but equally thrilling, a story of improbability, yes, a story altogether impossible in this country, but indisputably true in the lands wherein it is set.

The richest woman in France, a widow and childless, a countess, whose balls and receptions were famous the earth over, died at just the beginning of the war. Having no near kin, except a brother, she left him the bulk of her fortune, a million and a half dollars. This brother was a village school master, who lived a simple, peaceful life, loving his little scholars as a father and finding all the pleasure he wanted in teaching them and in the companionship of cronies, who could meet him at the tavern in the evening and over a glass of sparkling wine and a pipe of tobacco relate the village news and gravely discuss the problems of the outside world and determine to their own satisfaction how they should be settled.

In his simple philosophy riches meant only trouble, worry and sinfulness so he refused to accept a single franc from his sister's estate. He died about two years after the great fortune had descended upon him and dying bequeathed it all to three Catholic bishops. None of these would accept his portion and all directed that their bequests be turned over to the relatives of the schoolmaster. The nearest of these proved to be Italians, three distinct branches, every one of which declined its share and directed that all the estate be given to another. None of the three, however, would accept all, so the French count, which holds the estate in charge is puzzled to know what to do with it.

Yes, those foreigners are strange people—some of them, there are others just like us Americans. A bogus claimant has sprung up for the millions and a shark is claiming the bulk of it on the ground that he was the little schoolmaster's legal adviser and gave him invaluable counsel.

Morals in Government.

My own deliberate opinion is, that the more of pure moral principle is carried into the policy and conduct of a government, the more profound will that policy be. If it is not the uniform course of human events that virtue should be crowned with success, it is at least the uniform will of Heaven that virtue should be the duty of man. The path of virtue is, indeed, not always clear, and in the complication of human affairs artifice and simulation itself must occasionally be practiced. But it may, I believe, be laid down as a universal maxim that fraud is never justifiable to effect the same object. Fraud is, therefore, a weapon essentially belonging to the relations of war.—John Quincy Adams.

Semiramis' "Fleet."

We learn that Semiramis, Assyria's imperious queen, 1865 B. C., had a fleet of 3,000 ships, with which she conquered the fleet of Sargonides, 4,000 strong, at the mouth of the Indus. But our wonder is abated when we learn that the fleet of Semiramis was carried on the backs of camels from the shores of Syria to the Indus banks. Those "ships" must have been small craft than now compete at Humber regatta, and the fleets of both monarchs could have been comfortably stored in the hold of one of Great Britain's present-day leviathan cargo boats. But the little trade ships of those far-off ages must not be despised. They were the seeds of an industry destined to be one of the greatest factors in the progress of civilization.—Whitehall Gazette.

New-York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MONTGOMERY

NEW YORK, October 24.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up bedtimes and breakfast with A. Andrews and K. Kitchen and came Dr. Estes who has been two years in a Russian prison and so emaciated I did not know him at all yet we once lived at the same inn for five years.

Afoot through the town pulling in at a book stall where I bought "When Winter Comes" and a book of verse by Miss Millay. Stood awhile on the library steps watching the crowds and saw Christy, the artist; Mr. Sabu, the banker, and T. Healy, the restaurant man.

Going to the Morning Telegraph I matched coins with L. Marsh, the scrivener, and winning I bought him a noble cigar with fair grace too. Home where I sat awhile with my wife, poor wretch, and we talked of the condition of our estate and resolved to lay out money for fall clothes.

Labored awhile in the late evening, albeit to no good report, the condition of my mind being very slothful. Later came Tom Millard, the China journalist, and Miss Justine and all away to the Club Maurice and watched Maurice and Miss Hughes, newly come from Paris, dance and mighty graceful they were and so home late and to bed.

"Tangerine" at the Casino, his provided the greatest number of song hits of the present theatrical season so music dealers say. "Sweet Lady" is listed by the Globe as the best seller of the month.

The New York debutantes or du coin are: "Why don't they propose?" A society sheet lists 126 eligible debs of the present season and not one has announced her engagement and what with the terrific expense of a coming out party many doting momas are taking on a worried look. It is said that during the past two years business conditions have been so unsettled that most eligible young men are more concerned in appeasing the omulverous appetite of calloused creditors.

The male pick-pocket works with a gang consisting of a "wire" and two or three "stalls" but the "Prisking Jane" as the police call the female dip invariably works alone. In a Thirty-Fourth street department store the other day I watched the store detective close in on a woman whose large fur wrap cached many valuable articles picked up about the store. Her specialty was opening shopping bags of others.

"May we ask you to go to the private office?" asked one detective.

"What is it a pinch?" she asked with a swift intake of breath.

"Yes," was the reply. Her eyes flashed the green of a jungle cat then she tossed her head lightly and went along. A half hour later I saw her climb the steps of a patrol wagon.

It is the hour of dusk that Chinatown pads to and fro noiselessly. In the little tangi of lights, strong gold and queer smells the bubble of Oriental talk is incessant at this hour. Women parade in gaudy headbands and beads of jade. The men wear their gaudiest silken robes. There are dried up men whose faces are old with the age of Eastern lore, young women who walk with mincing steps and Oriental grace, the long men with knives strapped to their arms, cherry cheeked babies tottering uncertainly. Occidental faces are just a bit unwelcome for Chinatown, just as Fifth Avenue has its daily evening parade.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Women in the Church

It is believed by some students that Paul's restrictions against women were born of conditions existing in Corinth, where women were notoriously immoral, and the early Christian church caused the apostle much concern because a strong faction in it was determined to include prostitution in its services—a common thing in heathen worship of false gods. But the reason Paul gives for his orders quoted above are plain, and as follows:

"For Adam was first formed, then Eve. And Adam was not deceived; but the woman deceived. Notwithstanding she shall be saved in childbearing, if she continue in faith and charity and holiness in sobriety."

The dissatisfaction of women because of Paul's prohibitions for them broke out in the recent Pan-Presbyterian Alliance meetings, where his famous instructions to Timothy were attacked in an effort to win approval of women preachers. Paul wrote to Timothy:

"Let the women learn in silence with all subjection. But I suffer not a woman to teach nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence."

Revolts against some of the teachings of Paul, the eldest and greatest of Christ's apostles, and second only of the Savior as a Christian authority, is spreading in some of the leading Protestant churches. Does it forecast a breakdown of apostolic Christian teaching? the beginning of the Christian religion?

It would be a serious thing if women, the most faithful adherents of Jesus as a body, should break the authority of His strongest apostle, and with it cause a general weakening of all apostolic authority in the Christian religion, because of persistent determination to take over and exercise all the religious functions now under control of men.

The Popular Column

We do not know who originated the column now found on most great editorial pages, in which one man's mind is given right of way for his individuality in verse, comment, humor and wit. Eugene Field's "Shirley and Flats" may have been the first. It is the earliest we remember, at any rate. But the immense popularity of these "columns" demonstrates the interest of people in personalities—such personalities as Bert L. Taylor, Roy Montton, Don Marquis, P. P. Adams, and others less famous.

Their intimate, unstudied, original, free expression of themselves has met popular approval. It seems to fill a vacuum created when editorial columns became anonymous, and names and reputations like those of Dana,

Greener, Halstead, Watterson and other famous editors faded away. Not that the writers of these "columns" in any way take the place of the great editorial writers. But they do fill a desire for entertainment not satisfied by formal writing, and give expression to talent formerly neglected.

One by one able and dignified editorial pages have given space to these amusing columns, and always with profit to the paper. It is good business now to lighten the solemnities of formal editorial work with the intimate, jovial, critical paragraphs, verses, opinions and trifles of the special writers always in quest of the unusual, the ridiculous, and the amusing things of literature, life and experience. Doubtless the truth which sustains them is the relish for a little nonsense, now and then, which most men have.

The Trend of the Times

When party government fails in this Republic, and is succeeded by the control of allied groups having selfish interests rather than the general welfare in view, then will begin the establishment of class rule, the division of the country into hostile groups, and the disintegration of patriotism.

The distance we have traveled in this direction may be estimated by a survey of conditions at the beginning of the war and at present. We heard of men pointing to the flag over their factories and spurning its symbolism. We heard from one pupil a declaration that its occupant care not what flag they flew over the Capitol at Washington. Later we saw the tremendous effort made to merge our national independence into a world super-government, and to place our resources—military, naval and financial—at the disposition of a foreign council. That was a powerful if sentimental assault on our nationalism. Now we see at the seat of our government various groups of legislators banded together for class purposes—to promote exclusively the interests of farmers, of manufacturers, of laborers, of financiers, of cotton planters, or of other special interests.

Of all these, the combination of bankers is least dangerous, because financial stability upon general prosperity rather than that of any special group. But it is time to awaken to the signs of the times.

Had Lost the Name.

Little Edward, aged three years, was busy playing with Milworth, who was an afternoon guest. After partaking of some lunch they were about to resume their play, when I overheard Edward say to Milworth, "Say, kid, what's your name again, I lost it?"

"The Best Time of the Year" Some sigh because its autumn And winter's growing near. But if they'd only smile and greet it, It's the best time of the year.

The flaming of the maple, The oak of darkest red— The Blue Jays darting in and out While all is 'smoky overhead.

The golden of the Poplar And Birch along the stream— Each floating leaf reflects a sparkle So near like gold they seem.

'Tis now the farmer hastens To gather all the treasures in From helpful hands of autumn, To fill each flowing bin.

The golden corn and pumpkins, The turkeys grouchy call, The white frost on the meadows, All beauties of the fall.

The smell of roasting apples And chestnuts, on the hearth, As we gather round the fire place There's no lovelier place on earth.

Give to each pleasure seeker The springtime or the summer days, But to have the good-old autumn To those who love her ways. —Janice.

"How fast did you run?" he was asked. "Fast ez I could, suh."

"And how fast did George Henry run?" "How fast? Boss, ef dat boy had of cat eggs fo' breakfast he would of flew!"

Gritty Girl

They were motoring a considerable distance to see the last race of the season. The margin of time was very short.

With about 12 miles to go, he bade defiance to all police traps and, turning to the girl of his heart, exclaimed: "We're going at 50 miles an hour. Are you brave, dear?"

The girl, as she swallowed a quantity of dust, replied with emotion: "Yes, dear, I'm full of grit!"

Horse-Drawn Iron And Rubber Hose Solves Street Flushing

BAKER, Oregon, with a population of 10,000, has solved the problem of cleaning its streets in a unique and effective manner. The source of the city's water supply is a reservoir, fed by mountain streams, located on top of a mountain about a thousand feet above the street level. Coming from this height the pressure of the water under gravity is sufficient to throw a stream from an ordinary fire hose a distance of a hundred feet or more, thus making the use of fire-engines for pumping water unnecessary.

All that is required is to attach a hose to one of the numerous water plugs and turn on the water.

This arrangement suggested to one of the city officials a scheme for flushing the streets. Water plugs were too far apart to permit of more than half a block being flushed at a time, so he rigged up a portable hose made from sections of iron pipe, ten feet long and two inches in diameter, coupled together with short pieces of hose. The whole affair is mounted on little iron wheels placed at each section of pipe.

In this way a hose of sufficient length to cover an entire block is easily drawn about by a horse, the nozzle of the hose being attached to one end at which the horse is harnessed.

The pieces of hose connecting the sections of iron pipe render the whole affair more or less flexible, so that it can be turned in any direction or even doubled on itself.
